WASTEWATER WOES—Listening to discussion at a Wednesday night Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Board of Directors meeting at City Hall in that city are, from left, Mayor John Longo of Waveland, board chairman; A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, Hancock County Board of Supervisors president; and Mayor Larry Bennett of Waveland. The board met for some two hours with Bay St. Louis councilmen in an attempt to settle differences regarding that city's proposed agreement to join the district. The board recently tabled the city's agreement and the leaders Wednesday decided to meet with State Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control officials in an attempt to settle apparent conflicting statements made by the state agency's officials regarding procedures for establishing the countywide district. Bay officials are seeking the board's approval of an agreement which includes several stipulations not included in agreements accepted from Waveland and the county. The state is requiring the countywide wastewater district in an attempt to solve local water pollution problems. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Absent attorney prompts extra school board meeting

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County School Board will have to conduct an additional special meeting Monday morning to meet with its attorney to seek legal advice on several matters.

William Haddock, interim superintendent of education, at a Saturday morning regular meeting sought board action on several matters which board members would not act on because Joseph Gex, board board attorney, was not present.

All board members attending the Monday meeting will receive per diem pay from district funds for the extra meeting.

Gex attended the first portion of the Saturday meeting, but left for no apparent reason prior to Haddock's presentation.

The interim superintendent revealed

Billy Sills, former superintendent of education removed from office recently after pleading guilty to an embezzlement and fraud charge regarding repair work at Gulfview Elementary School, did not seek the required three quotations for replacement of a $2,500 well pump at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlinton.

Haddock said the pump was replaced by Braden Pump and Well Service, but the company has not been paid by the district because a recent State Attorney General ruling states Sills exceeded his authority in recommending the company for job because the quotations were not obtained.

The interim superintendent reported the pump is not operating because it needs adjustment, but the company will not perform that work because of the lacking payment.

He also revealed the State Health Department has determined the well is impure. Haddock speculated the tested water has become stagnant because of the well's inoperable condition.

The attorney general's letter read by Haddock further states the pump should be removed and the work offered for bid.

Haddock reported the work should have been completed several months ago and that an emergency condition exists because classes will begin districtwide Aug. 17.

Louie Ladner, a board member, agreed with Haddock, but the interim superintendent warned that legal advice is needed because the well commission pany might take legal action against the board in whatever course is taken by the school officials.

The board voted to direct the company to remove the pump, but Woodrow Ladner, a board member presiding at the meeting, recommended the officials meet Monday morning with Gex to receive his opinion in the matter.

Haddock also reported the board may not have legal authority to pay Charles Benvenuti, a Bay St. Louis certified public accountant, for a portion of a school activity fund audit.

The board voted to withhold a $25 claims docket payment to Benvenuti pending consultation with Gex Monday morning.

The interim superintendent said he and Benvenuti are not able to determine from state law if the board can legally pay for an audit of 1978-79 activity funds.

Woodrow Ladner stated, "We would be paying this illegally."

Sills in June recommended the board hire an accountant to audit the account.

In addition, Haddock reported Gex was authorized by the board on June 20, 1980 to draft a letter to the County Board of Supervisors seeking a millage reduction to help simplify the district's

United Gas to increase rates some 23 percent in September

By BRENT MACEY

United Gas which supplies natural gas in five southern states, including Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, and northwest Florida, will increase rates some 23 percent beginning Sept. 1.

Customers will feel the increase on

Stinson tax fraud trial delayed

The trial of Thomas and Mildred Stinson of Bay St. Louis, the first Mississippians ever indicted for income tax fraud, has been delayed indefinitely so Mr. Stinson can undergo medical treatment.

The trial had been scheduled for last week in Hinds County.

The couple was indicted by a Hinds County Grand Jury in connection with the 1980 emergency repair work at Gulfview Elementary School in Hancock County.

The Stinson firm was paid $27,554 by the county school district to construct a fence and cleanup the school grounds after a tornado struck the school.

Both have pled innocent to the charges.

Similar charges against former Hancock County School Superintendent Billy D. Sills were dropped by the District Attorney's office last week after Sills pled guilty to a charge of fraud-embezzlement last week in Hancock County Circuit Court.

their first bill in October; an estimated increase of 90 to 95 cents for each 1,000 cubic feet of gas purchased monthly.

According to Roy Mitchell, sales manager with United Gas in Mobile, Ala., the increase is the result of the first leg of the Alaskan (Pipeline) project where gas from Canada will be flowing into the United States.

He explained Northern Border Company, of which United Gas is a member, entered a contract in 1978 agreeing to purchase gas from the pipeline.

The line will begin servicing the U.S. Sept. 1, from a line terminating in Illinois.

Although the gas will not be used in the south, United Gas has an exchange agreement with Northern Natural Pipeline Co., another member of Northern Border Company.

In exchange for the Canadian gas to be used by the cartel, United Gas will receive gas from companies in the Gulf Coast area which have contracts with Northern Border Company.

Mitchell noted price increases result, because the Canadian gas is a 'higher priced gas,' and is contracted to be purchased at $3 per 1,000 cubic feet. An additional $1.70 charge for transportation into Illinois, brings the companies' price for that gas to $4.70 per 1,000 cubic feet, Mitchell said.

He noted the price is high in comparison to other United Gas contracts, including contracts which range as low as $3.15 per 1,000 cubic feet to a high of $8 per 1,000 cubic feet for gas obtained from deep gas wells.

Although the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission will review the gas increase to determine if it is justified, Mitchell noted United Gas has the authority to initially set prices without the approval of the commission.

The commission will review our rate of return versus our cost...and determine if we owe our customers a refund," he said.

The reviewing process takes from one to two years, he said.

Mitchell noted the additional gas will 'increase our reserve capacity.'

He stated gas companies must constantly acquire more gas to increase its reserves since existing wells 'only last so long.'

Bay customers to pay full gas cost increase

By BRENT MACEY

A 23 percent increase in the wholesale price of natural gas this September is expected to increase monthly customer bills in Bay St. Louis some 14 to 15 percent by October.

The increase in Waveland rates have not yet been determined.

In addition to the expected 23 percent rate increase, this September, additional rate increases of 10 percent are expected in January and July of 1983, respectively.

Bay St. Louis City Clerk Eddie Favre noted the September increase will mean the average Bay St. Louis customer who now pays $52.60 monthly for some 6,000 cubic feet of gas, will be paying $64 per month beginning in October.

By this time next year, Favre estimated the same customer will be paying $76 for the same amount of gas if rates are increased as expected in both January and July.

SHUTTLE TANK MOVES OUT—The first Space Shuttle external tank is being moved by a barge Orion in New Orleans for a five-day trip to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida via the Intercoastal Waterway. The tank is the last of three to be moved. The sixth shuttle launch is planned for April 1983. This is the last external tank to be moved to initial design specifications. Future tanks will look somewhat different, they will weigh at least 5,000 pounds less. Because the tank's weight is being reduced, the carry heavier payloads. The first Shuttle launch is scheduled for Nov. 11, 1982. Michoud adds $107 million tank contract

Martin Marietta Aerospace has been awarded a $107 million follow-on contract for Space Shuttle external fuel tanks.

The funding is for components, subassemblies and long-lead materials for 24 additional lightweight tanks and for producing six others, previously contracted, in the same new lighter weight configuration.

The contract was awarded by the national Aeronautics and Space Administration's Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Alabama.

The tanks, 154-feet long and 28-feet in diameter, will be delivered as required by NASA's Space Shuttle mission schedule. All tanks built under this contract are scheduled for Shuttle flights from Kennedy Space Center, Florida.

Employment at Michoud is presently over 4,000. Depending on Shuttle launch schedules, Martin Marietta could add to its work force at NASA's Michoud facility an additional 500 employees during the course of the three year contract.

Martin Marietta is currently working on contracts for 15 complete tanks — three for tests, 12 for flight. The three test tanks and the first six flight tanks have been delivered to NASA.

The seventh flight tank is being prepared for shipment in September to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

The external fuel tank provides 520,000 gallons of propellant to the three main engines of the Space Shuttle's airplane-like orbiter during the launch phase of each mission.

Martin Marietta builds the tanks at NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans East.

Health includes best of psychology

Did you know that your physical health is often directly related to the amount of stress you are under? Recently, a movement that has been a renaissance of medical thinking has combined the art of psychology with the science of medicine.

The movement is called Holistic Health or Wellness, and it is based on the concept that we are all involved in our health and illnesses, and, logically, it follows that we are capable of aiding our own healing processes in our bodies.

The research that has been conducted in this area includes studies on the effects of overeating, loss of a loved one, being the victim of aggression without any way to defend oneself, and more generally, having gotten off the track somewhere in life and having given up trying for once hoped-for goals and ideals.

The loss of joy, of hope, and of goals has been closely associated with serious illness. Likewise, the creation and rediscovery of specific life goals, along with the decision to work out one's psychological problems, has helped many people consciously aid the medical treatment involved in fighting the particular illness.

A technique called "guided imagery" is used to help the ill person give an image to his or her illness. Once the picture has been formed in the mind, the subject is taught to visualize the illness being destroyed, usually by another image of the white blood cells.

In the case of cancer research, for example, guided imagery is used to help the chemotherapy treatments and the radiation. The subject "sees" the radiation destroying the abnormal cells, and "sees" the healthy cells surviving and multiplying.

Deep relaxation is also taught in order to aid the subject in the imagery process. Two techniques that are commonly used in conjunction with this treatment are hypnosis and biofeedback.

Learning deep relaxation through the use of one of these techniques has helped many people in various ways. Some of the most common uses are with chronic pain control.

A good example would be a back patient who has suffered an injury and may or may not have had surgery. Physicians have discovered that the practice of deep relaxation on a regular basis has reduced the time of recovery and healing from surgery, and has aided the patient in dealing with the intense and chronic pain from surgery or the injury.

Patients can be taught to reduce the intensity of the experience of pain, either through hypnosis or biofeedback, or some combination of both. The effect is not actually a "pain free" existence, but more a reduction of the intensity.

sity of the experience so that the patient can resume his or her natural lifestyle.

The pain is put in the background, where it belongs, available as a warning signal, in case something should go wrong; a steady, but hopefully gentle reminder that the body has been injured and is in a healing process, and an indication that one's physical functions are healthy and working properly.

In the foreground are all the important aspects of life that were focused upon prior to the injury or illness. In this way, chronic pain control and deep relaxation aids the individual in resuming his or her own life.

Physiologically, it has been determined that stress affects the immune system. Even common colds have been directly linked to stress.

It seems, according to one theory, that the body is not as able to fight off invaders when under stress. Studies with animals have demonstrated this beyond any doubt.

Careful monitoring of our own life situations can demonstrate the same results, allowing us some alternatives to illness. Those alternatives usually involve learning to play again, seeking beauty and joy in life, laughing, learning to improve relationships with those significant to you, slowing oneself down long enough to enjoy life more, and establishing personal goals compatible with one's own sense of ideals and values.

All of these pursuits have seemed somewhat "trivial" to serious-minded adults (and, alas, children and teenagers). However, we can all celebrate the recent research in giving us a perfect reason (or excuse, if we feel we need it) to relax and enjoy life.

Another key to releasing stress is creative expression. The arts, interior design, landscaping, flower arrangement, helping a friend select clothing or hair styles—all of these are expressions of creativity.

Kenneth Pelletier pioneered this movement with his book, Mind as Healer; Mind as Slayer.

Those seriously interested in helping heal themselves should get their hands on this paperback and read it in its entirety.

For more specific dealings with cancer, then read O. Carl Simonton's book (he is a medical doctor) called, Getting Well Again.

Once you have the information, the next, and most difficult step, is to put it into practice. Simply reading it, understanding it, but not doing it will not change anything.

Finally, if you have a serious illness, you will need a counselor, physician, or psychotherapist trained in this area to help teach you imagery, relaxation, and possibly biofeedback.

Quite often, psychotherapy is necessary to discover the various ways that we produce or create stress in our bodies, and to discover how to turn negative attempts in dealing with stress into successful and constructive attempts.

The most appealing part of this new way of thinking is that the "patient" is no longer a passive victim of illness. Many people lose hope when they hear the illness diagnosed and the prognosis described.

Hope is critical to healing. The Holistic Health movement offers hope, and back it up with sound and scientific research and theory.

Perkinston adds courses

Five new programs have been added to the curriculum at Gulf Coast Junior College's Perkinston Campus. They are: petroleum technology, court reporting, interior design, fashion merchandising, and computer science.

"These programs were selected because they afford good job opportunities to the students," explained Dr. Clyde E. Strickland, executive dean of Perkinston Campus.

"We designed the courses so students are prepared to work upon completion of any of the two-year programs. However, in the case of interior design, fashion merchandising, and computer science, students who wish to do so may transfer their credits to a senior college and work toward a bachelor's degree," Strickland said.

He said petroleum technology and court reporting are terminal programs. Upon completion of these, students are eligible for employment.

Persons completing the program can apply for employment in the exploration, production, and refining of petroleum products.

According to Strickland, court reporters are also in demand. "Machine shorthand will be among the courses taught. Our classroom is equipped with new Stenograph machines," he said. "There are only 23 keys on these machines. Students have only 16 letter combinations to learn as 'symbols'."

Contact the Perkinston Campus admissions office for further information, 928-5211, extension 140.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

ESCROW FACTOR QUESTION: When I bought my home the lender required me to establish an escrow account. During the first two years the account was adequate to pay property taxes and insurance. Now it is suddenly $400 in arrears. What happened, and what should I have done differently? S.J. Jackson.

ANSWER: When a home mortgage agreement closes, the lender estimates the next insurance premium and property tax payment based on payments for last year. From these estimates, the lender determines the monthly deposit required to make these payments when they become due.

Typically, the homeowner makes monthly deposits that accumulate to an amount equal to annual insurance and property tax payments.

The lender makes insurance and tax payments for the homeowner.

Deficiencies, such as happened in your case, must be paid in a lump sum by the homeowner within a specified period of time. An adjustment is then made to the monthly deposit requirement, and a change in house payments is necessary.

In your case, more than likely your property was reappraised sometime after your purchase, since it is highly unlikely that your insurance premium would increase $400 in one year.

The general public often takes little notice when a reappraisal is in progress. Their first awareness comes when they receive notice of new valuations for their homes.

The notice contains the value for the preceding year, the proposed value following reappraisal, the amount of tax assessed the preceding year, and two estimates of the tax for the current year.

The two estimates may comprise a range in which the actual tax will fall. The upper-bound estimate results from applying the tax rate from last year to the new assessed value.

This estimate will normally exceed the tax from last year by the same percentage that the proposed value exceeds the value for last year.

The lower-bound estimate results from applying a tax rate which would result in the assessment of the same total levy as last year. Such a rate would apply if the budget for the taxing jurisdiction did not increase.

Since many budgets typically increase, the actual tax assessment generally will lie between these two extremes.

In the future check with the taxing authority to see if your property has been reappraised. If it has, you might want to immediately increase your monthly escrow deposit. Otherwise you may again find your escrow account $400 in arrears.

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Dennis Rosh, P.O. Box 295, University, MS 38677.

Alcorn professor reports on China's care of elderly

Dr. Alpha Morris, assistant professor of social sciences at Alcorn State University, recently returned from the Orient and the Republic of China on a People-to-People Mission on Aging and Care.

Dr. Morris was among a delegation of 38, representing 17 states. The majority of the delegation were members of the medical profession. Dr. Morris was the only participant from the field of higher education in Mississippi.

The mission was "basically a learning experience and working tour," according to Dr. Morris. Slides and papers were presented, seminars were conducted and visitations were made to communies, old age homes and medical schools, and universities.

Dr. Morris presented a paper at a seminar at the Second Medical College in Shanghai, discussing "Parallel Services for the Elderly: Alternatives to Institutionalization from a Cross-National Perspective."

In China an older person is "respected highly and given many priorities," Dr. Morris explained. If an elderly person has a family, it is understood that he will remain with and be taken care of by his family.

If the person has no family, he receives adequate health care in one of the old age homes. Dr. Morris visited one of the homes which was connected to a hospital where occupants enjoyed a doctor/patient ratio of 3 to 1.

From a tourist point of view, Dr. Morris described the whole lifestyle of the Orient as "interesting." A crowded street of honking bicycles rather than cars, a commune which grew flowers only, the Great Wall of China, a diet of mainly vegetables and rice with a minimum of 12 courses, and the serving of beer with every meal.

Annexed area citizens forced to last resort

Most residents of the Bay St. Louis annexed area have waited for as long as 15 years for city services, and many are still without any of the usual benefits afforded city taxpayers.

These anticipated services were not just the ordinary 'political promises' made by candidates during campaigns. They were court ordered services to be given the annexed residents within a five year period.

And yet today, 15 years later, there are still residents who have not even received a hard surfaced street much less water and sewerage services.

Information we have received in recent days indicates that the organized annexed area citizens are in the process of filing suit against the City of Bay St. Louis for not following the court order.

We realize the current administration was not in office when all of these court orders were issued by Chancellor Frank Alexander, but the responsibilities stay with the jobs and those later elected cannot ignore court orders issued prior to their election.

The decree issued by Chancery Court Judge Alexander on April 17, 1967, stated:

"...1. That the City of Bay St. Louis will, within a period not to exceed five years, or earlier when and if economically feasible, provide the following improvements to the City of Bay St. Louis—installation of gas, water and sewer lines, and street lighting.

2. That in order to provide the orderly development of utilities and hard surfacing of streets, drainage, and other services to the proposed annexed territory, the City will, within a period of six months from the date of this decree, employ a competent and qualified firm to make a thorough and complete study of the entire annexed area for the installation of gas and water (including five fire hydrants) and sewer lines followed by a major street and drainage improvement program..."

Bay St. Louis records indicate that prior to the 1967 annexation, the last annexation by Bay St. Louis was in 1858, 109 years ago, when the city changed its name from Shieldsborough.

A tremendous addition to the tax structure of Bay St. Louis was added with the 1967 annexation. All of the US-90 businesses were brought in with the exception of those in the Bay Mall, and Frostop.

The increased number of businesses in the city meant more taxes and a better tax base and should have meant many services for these people and merchants.

We know some of the people of the annexed areas have received city sewerage and water, but they are isolated cases, hardly an acceptable compliance with the court decree.

The city last week moved to file a preapplication with Farmers Home Loan Administration for funds to finance a $2.5 million sewerage project which might bring some services to the annexed area, but the process will surely add more years to try the patience of the deprived annexed area residents.

We feel ten years is already too long to wait for something beyond a court ordered deadline.

The only recourse for those citizens of Bay St. Louis is to return to the court.

CONSUMER REPORT

A Service of the Consumer Protection Division of the Office of Bill Allain, Attorney General
P.O. Box 220, Jackson, MS 39205 (601-354-7130)

WANDERING HOME
CONTRACTORS

Attorney General Bill Allain is warning Mississippians to be wary of wandering home repair contractors who are beginning to surface in the state.

According to Allain, information from the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office shows that Mississippians are often taken advantage of by con artists who claim to be painters, carpenters, and roofers.

What appears to be fast and cheap repair work turns out inferior and expensive.

CONSUMER

BILL ALLAIN,
ATTORNEY GENERAL

BUYING BULK MEAT

Attorney General Bill Allain says that rising food prices—particularly rising meat costs—have caused consumers to seek out the least expensive outlets for food.

This quest for savings often leads consumers to bulk meat sellers where by buying in large quantities they sometimes can save money.

However, not all bulk meat sellers offer a saving; very often if consumers are not careful they can find themselves victimized by deceptive advertising and fraudulent sales practices. Here are some of the practices to beware of:

"Don't be caught in 'bait and switch'—some bulk meat dealers lure consumers in by advertising meat at what seems to be extremely low prices.

When, however, the consumer asks for the advertised meat, they try to discourage its purchase by refusing to sell it or by pointing out its poor quality.

Sometimes consumers are even shown meat that is moldy and offensive smelling. The object is, of course, to switch consumers to more expensive meats.

"Don't be misled by the price of meat sold by hanging weight—that is, untrimmed and uncut.

Find out what the cost-per-pound is for take-home meat.

After the loss caused by trimming and boning, the "low-cost-per-pound" could turn out to be higher than the ordinary retail price.

Edible meat might in some cases amount to only half the hanging weight, doubling the actual price per pound the consumer pays for what he eats. You will be paying for what is being raked into the garbage bags.

*Watch carefully when meat is trimmed, cut, and packaged to make sure what you bought is what you take home.

For additional information contact Consumer Protection Division, P.O. Box 220, Jackson, Mississippi 39205 (601) 354-4244.

These so-called contractors often work on advance-pay basis and have no intention of doing quality work. Many times the work is unfinished or never started.

According to the Attorney General, Mississippians can guard against contractor problems by following these suggestions:

1. Check the reputation of a contractor with the Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, banks, building or trade associations, city building permit departments, or friends familiar with the contractor.

2. Get the names and addresses of several contractors. An effective approach is to ask friends and neighbors who have previously hired a contractor. It is risky to deal with an unfamiliar company or individual.

3. Get a firm, written estimate with a specific description of the work to be done, the type and quality of materials to be used, and include the total cost of the job. Never hire a contractor who has not come to the house to appraise the work.

4. Ask for a written contract based on his estimate. Read the contract carefully. Have an attorney or trustworthy person review the contract before you sign.

Be certain that the contract includes: the name, address, and phone number of the contractor; a complete description of the work; a specific description of the materials to be used; a provision requiring your written approval for any changes in the agreed-to plans and specifications; a guarantee containing clearly stated terms that covers all promised items; a provision setting forth the total cost of the work and the specific terms of payment for materials and labor.

The contract must include the signature of the contractor. Never sign any contract containing blank space.

5. Never agree to a contract calling for substantial payments on the total amount before work is begun unless there is a legitimate reason known to you. Try to arrange payments in installments as portions of the work are satisfactorily completed.

6. Never rely on oral guarantees. If a guarantee is not written it is generally worthless.

The "Federal Truth in Lending Law" also provides a cancellation period. This law gives you three days to cancel if the contractor received a security interest, such as a mortgage, on your home as part of the transaction.

The Hancock County Junior Deputies will sponsor a Country and Western Show on Aug. 20 at the Hancock County Fairgrounds.

Grand Ole Opry Recording Star Charlie Louvin and The Mountain Band are scheduled to appear. Among his top selling records are: 'Will You Visit Me On Sunday', 'See The Big Man Cry', 'Mama's Angels', 'I Don't Love You Anymore' and others.

Nathan Hoda, Hancock Deputy who is the coordinator for the Junior Deputies reports tickets are on sale at the sheriff's office, Crosby and Associates, and also from any member of the Junior Deputies.

We know many folks like country and western music and we hope they will purchase tickets and attend this benefit for our young people.

One of our subscribers called Thursday wondering why Bay St. Louis does not have several trash barrels for persons to dispose of litter near the Ulman Avenue pier.

This person takes pride in his property and we have seen him on numerous occasions picking up paper, cans, etc. near his residence.

Right off the trash barrels sound very good, but, there are several negative factors we have discovered in attending numerous clean-up meetings.

The barrels would be fine if they were just used for litter.

The major problem comes from fish and shrimp which were repeatedly thrown into barrels when they were previously tried along our beaches.

Persons walking, driving or living on the beach were unable to stand the smell.

And folks, nothing can smell stronger than dead shrimp or fish.

Motorists should observe the no parking signs in the 100 block of Main Street this coming week as Bay St. Louis City crewmen begin to make necessary repairs before the street is resurfaced.

Rather than block off the entire street, we are told the workers will only place no parking signs in the immediate areas of work.

We know there has been a lot of talk over the past several years on the repairs of Main Street, so we are glad the work is finally beginning.

We have been told the police will tow away vehicles parked in the no parking zones, so we hope motorists will observe the signs.

There always seems to be a segment of people unable to read as evidenced by the number of vehicles parking in front of the post office. Some almost knock down the no parking signs.

Our local newspaper usually does six special editions a year. We try to run an ad in each, but our ad rep tells us we should run our regular ads as well. Why should we run two?

Dear WSWRT: Maybe you shouldn't. It depends on the nature of the editions and how they are done.

If the special edition is, in effect, just the regular edition with a different emphasis, one ad could suffice.

However, if the special is an insert or special section, you may need to be in both.

Your regular ad program should be concentrated in the regular news pages. This is your bread and butter.

On the other hand, special editions call for a different kind of ad.

For one thing, the editions are probably of more lasting value than the regular newspaper. This might suggest an institutional approach in your ads, rather than a "sales" appeal.

You may very well want to tie your ad in the special edition to its theme.

This would make your message more effective than a general, or unrelated ad.

So, let the nature of your regular ads and the nature of the special dictate your answer.

Trying to compromise with one ad may work, but it may not. It seems hardly worth taking the chance.

WOOL/LAMB REFERENDUM

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will conduct a referendum August 16-27 for wool and lamb producers to vote for or against a new agreement between the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc.

Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director, said the agreement authorizes USDA to withhold part of any wool incentive payment that might be made to producers on 1982 marketings to finance the ASPC's activities.

"Deductions would be used by the Council to finance advertising and sales promotion programs for wool and lamb, and programs to develop and disseminate information on product quality, production management, and marketing improvement for wool and sheep."

He said if producers approve the agreement, up to 4 cents per pound on shorn wool marketings, and 20 cents per hundredweight on unshorn lambs, would be deducted.

Copies of the agreement and ballots will be distributed to Pearl River-Hancock County wool producers beginning August 12. Ballots may be returned by mail or in person to the county ASCS office.

According to Gennin, the new agreement is similar to one approved in 1978.

Favre noted the city passes all rate increases directly on to the customer; a practice established by a city ordinance passed in 1971.

Waveland has no ordinance on the books, and each rate increase from United is considered separately by the city's board of aldermen.

Thelma Exnicious, manager of the Waveland Water and Gas Department, noted Waveland has not increased the price of gas since October 1981, although United Gas, which supplies natural gas to both cities, has increased its prices some 20 percent since that time.

Waveland Mayor John Longo, when questioned about how the city intends to deal with the increase, stated, "We'll try to absorb some of the cost and offer some relief, at least until January."

Longo noted the city will be working on its budget in the next few weeks and stated he would have to study the matter closely at that time before deciding what course of action the city will take.

Both cities may be facing an increase of 52 percent over the next year. However, Favre noted Bay St. Louis customers would be paying only a 31 percent increase.

Using simplified figures to explain how this could happen, Favre noted the city may pay $5 for every 1,000 feet of natural gas purchased from United. The customer may pay $10 for that same amount.

If United Gas increases the city's fee to $8 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas, and if that $1 is assessed directly to the customer, the city would be paying 20 percent increase, while the customer would pay only a 10 percent increase.

Favre and Exnicious both said United Gas usually increases rates some 10 percent every six months.

This practice, according to Roy Mitchell, sales manager with United Gas in Mobile, Ala., is the result of his company's need to adjust the constant fluctuation of gas prices.

To avoid having to notify cities of each gas price fluctuation, Mitchell said the assessment is made every six months.

Mitchell noted that inflation of 2 to 3 percent is included in the company's assessment.

ETV Brief

GATES OF HEAVEN

Errol Morris, director of the acclaimed, "brilliantly bizarre" film about pet cemeteries and curiously titled "Gates of Heaven," has produced a new documentary to be presented on "Nonfiction Television" at 9 p.m., Wednesday, August 18, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

"Vernon, Florida," explores the eccentric people of a small town in Washington County, Florida. A much lauded success in its premiere appearance in the 1981 New York Film Festival, "Vernon, Florida" on the surface is a simple portrait of seven eccentric residents of this very odd, backwater town. Among them are:

A man whose obsession is turkey hunting and telling endless stories to help explain the turkey feet adorning his walls.

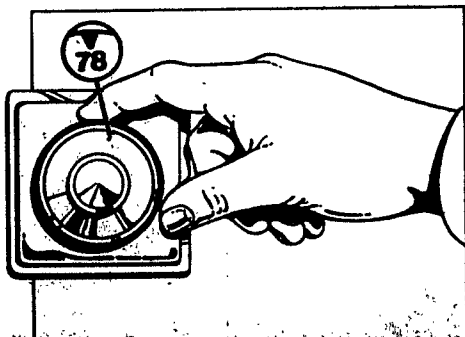

The town cop who discusses the places where he sits waiting for the crimes that never happen.

A preacher who explains how God helped him to buy a used van and a parcel of land.

A couple with a jar of sand that they insist is constantly growing.

An old man who shows off his collection of live animals, some very odd indeed.

A delighted man who admires his mail-order jewel, which he admits might be a fake.

Bulldogs to open season against Green

Starting the 83rd season of gridiron competition in Mississippi State history, the Bulldogs' freshmen and newcomers begin practice on Monday morning, Aug. 9.

State's orientation drills for the youngsters kick off preseason work toward the Sept. 4 opener against the Tulane Green Wave at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 4, in MSU's first trip to the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans.

Sixteen scholarship freshmen and some invited non-scholarship performers commence the pre-varsity practices in shorts Monday through Thursday, Aug. 12.

Then on Friday, Aug. 13, the entire squad goes into motion with two-a-day work before the pads are put on for the first time on Tuesday, Aug. 17.

MSU will brace for its annual visit by the Southeastern Conference Sky Writers on Wednesday, Aug. 25, in the second stop on the tour. The writers and electronic media will watch Wednesday's workout and then participate in breakfast conference with Head Coach Emory Ballard on Aug. 26.

When Coach Ballard welcomes the newcomers for the evening meal on Friday, Aug. 6, at McArthur Hall, the highly-respected Bulldogs' coach will be embarking on his fourth season at State.

He enters the campaign with a 10-year coaching mark of 68-42 and not a single tie in 110 games as a head coach and a composite record of 258-88-4 in his 31 seasons of coaching on all levels for an all-time winning percentage of .743.

"We are looking forward to the opening of practice," Ballard said recently. "We feel we have the toughest schedule of any team in the Southeastern Conference, but the chemistry for a good season seems right at this point."

When varsity drills begin on Aug. 13, the MSU mentor, who has been associated with six bowl teams in his last seven seasons as head coach at Texas A&M and MSU, is going to greet 45 lettermen and 17 returning starters from the '81 team.

Mississippi State needs just one more win to reach the 500 plateau on its all-time win-loss slate after the last two teams have gone 17-7 overall and have played in the university's first back-to-back bowl games.

Plans for a 14,400-seat addition to MSU's Scott Field (bringing actual seating capacity to 46,400) by 1984 are about to come to fruition, and the last two MSU teams have finished 18th (UPI) and 17th (AP) in the postseason wire-service polls.

MSU Baseball Team plays in Netherlands next week

It's off to the Netherlands for the Mississippi State baseball team on Wed., Aug. 11, for rugged international competition in the Haarlem International Baseball Tournament.

The meet, which has enjoyed such invites as NCAA champions Arizona, Miami (Fla.), and Southern California in past years, features some of the world's best competition in its round-robin format.

An American collegiate all-star team, the Japanese and Dutch national teams, and perennial semipro power Grand Rapids, Mich., join the hustling Bulldogs to compose the field.

Some 15 returning MSU diamondmen from the 1982-83 squad team up with NCAA World Series Most Valuable Player Danny Smith (pitcher) of Miami, Florida State's Mike Yastrzemski, Auburn third baseman Bob Berry, and Bulldog baseball alumni Steve D'Ercole and Tony Gage to form the Bulldogs' delegation.

MSU's coaching staff feels that the level of play can do nothing but help the MSU diamondmen in their quest for improvement in 1983.

"There is some awesome competition," noted Bulldogs' Head Coach Ron Polk, who completed his seventh year at State's helm in 1982. "It will be very hard to predict the winner, but I know the sights and baseball will be very enjoyable."

MSU's travel plans call for a drive to Atlanta, Ga., and then connecting flights to Amsterdam, Holland, via Hartsfield International Airport.

"We'll arrive in the Netherlands at around 4:30 a.m., body time," Polk noted, "but then we'll have about a day-and-a-half to recover from jet lag. We know that the entire tournament will be a challenging yet rewarding experience."

Travel to scenic areas in the Haarlem and Amsterdam areas will be worked around open dates in the games' schedule, and the world-famous Tulip Festival is expected to be one of the major attractions.

Return travel plans call for the Bulldogs to arrive stateside on Sunday, Aug. 22, after their third voyage out of North America since 1976.

In '76 the Diamond Dogs made a goodwill tour of American Air Force bases in West Germany, and the 1979 squad played a six-game series with then-top-ranked University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

PRC Wildcat gridders face 10-game schedule

Pearl River College's football Wildcats, the defending south division champions and overall runner-up, will play at least 10 games this fall, beginning with a road trip to East Mississippi on Thursday, Sept. 2.

The Wildcats' first game within confines of the Dobie Holden Stadium will be against Itawamba Saturday, Sept. 11. The Wildcats did not play East Mississippi or Itawamba last season.

It will be a short week for the 'Cats next as Hinds is on tap for Thursday, Sept. 16. But the PRC coaches will have a little extra time to prepare for their next home game against arch-rival Jones on Saturday, Sept. 25.

The Wildcats will begin their October schedule at home against Coahoma on Saturday, Oct. 2. East Central will again host the 'Cats, this time Oct. 9 and the PRC-Gulf Coast annual scrap is set for Biloxi, Oct. 16.

The very next week, Oct. 23, the Wildcats will return a favor from a year ago and host the Southwest Bears for Homecoming 1982.

Copiah-Lincoln will invade the Holden Stadium Oct. 30 to close the regular home season of the Wildcats. A rematch of last year's championship game is planned for Nov. 6 as the Wildcats take to the road to play Holmes in its homecoming.

All home games, except homecoming, will start at 7:30 p.m. The PRC homecoming contest is set for 8 p.m.

Federal, state agencies sign accord on conservation

Wildlife management on selected federal lands received a shot in the arm recently as a result of a new agreement signed by the U.S. Forest Service and the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation.

At a meeting in Jackson on Monday, July 19, officials of both agencies met and signed a six-page memorandum of understanding which outlines wildlife management responsibilities for both agencies.

According to wildlife experts, the DWC operates some 13 state wildlife management areas on the lands belonging to the Forest Service. "The memorandum that we have signed indicates our desire to join with the Forest Service in better management, conservation, development and protection of the wildlife found on Service land," explained Benny Herring, director of the Department's Bureau of Fisheries and Wildlife.

Under the terms of the agreement, the Department agrees among other things, to:

-provide adequate conservation officers for the normal enforcement of state game, fur, and fish laws effective on National Forest lands.

-to notify the Service promptly of changes in the game, fur, and fish laws or regulations.

-that all work performed by the Department within each wildlife management area be coordinated by the agency's on-the-ground representative in that area with the local District Ranger.

Along with other provisions of the memorandum, the Forest Service agrees to:

-furnish the Department with copies of the general wildlife reports prepared annually by the Forest Service.

-recognize the Department as the agency primarily responsible for determining the means by which game animals, fur bearers, and game fishes shall be utilized to the benefit of the people and the wildlife resource.

-to practice land and resource management that will enhance wildlife values in coordination with the management of the other forest resources.

Also specified in the memorandum are a list of management activities to be carried out jointly by both agencies.

"We feel that this agreement between us and the Department of Wildlife Conservation is one of the best cooperative ventures undertaken in our long history of cooperation in wildlife management," Forest Service Supervisor B.F. Finison said.

"It is our desire to work in harmony for the common purpose of developing, maintaining and managing all the wildlife resources for the best interest of the people of Mississippi and the United States."

HBO DURING AUGUST
Flipping through the HBO
guide for August we see:

(1) 'Victory' is a film by the respected director, John Houston, starring Sylvester Stallone, Michael Caine and Max Von Sydow. It is a story of war and soccer, an improbable pair indeed. Although a well-acted film, 'Victory' never quite seems to catch the audience up in the excitement of the games, whether they be between teams or nations. An ultimately hollow 'Victory.'

(2) 'Tarzan, The Ape Man' is a total waste from the outset. Husband John Derek directed nubile wife, Bo, in this incredibly boring film. No matter how much you'd like to see Bo romp in the buff, the first ninety minutes of this film will put you to sleep. The only redeeming value in the film is the closing credits, when a wild ape simply steals the show from Tarzan, played by Mississippi State alumnus Miles O'Keeffe, and Bo.

(3) 'Coast to Coast' has Dyan Cannon screening her way throughout most of the picture with co-star Robert Blake at the wheel of an eighteen wheeler. A fast pace and plenty of action keep Cannon from getting on your nerves though. A small film that's worth a look if you get the chance.

(4) 'The Night the Lights Went Out in Georgia' Kristy McNichol and Dennis Quaid give excellent performances as a brother and sister bound for Nashville. Loosely based on the hit song by Vicki Lawrence, the stars' gritty portrayals make 'TNTLEWIG' well worth watching.

(5) 'Eye of the Needle' is a lean and taut spy thriller complete with a ruthless Nazi spy played impeccably by Donald Sutherland. Kate Nelligan plays a neglected housewife living with her crippled husband and child on a lonely Scottish island. When Sutherland's boat crashes on their island, watch out (1) because 'Eye of the Needle' will tear your insides out.

(6) 'Clash of the Titans' A nicely done Greek mythology film with special effects by the old pro, Ray Harryhausen. Harry Hamlin stars as the son of Zeus, played by the imitable Laurence Olivier. Only the mechanical owl wings false in this fantasy story of myths and monsters.

(7) 'Alien' is a top-notch sci-fi film starring Sigourney Weaver and Tom Skerritt and directed by Ridley Scott, who did this year's 'Blade Runner'. This 1979 film won an Oscar for its visual effects and rightly so. If you're the squeamish type you'd better avoid this one but if you're not, 'Alien' is an intergalactic horror excursion that will leave you spaced out for days.

(8) 'Heaven Can Wait' stars Warren Beatty, Julie Christie, Dyan Cannon and Charles Grodin. Beatty and Christie provide the looks while Cannon and Grodin exploit their share of outrageously funny lines. A very good film, directed by Beatty and Buck Henry, which was nominated for nine Academy Awards including best picture.

(9) 'Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory' stars Gene Wilder and Jack Albertson in a great movie for the whole family. A rousing musical that will not disappoint.

(10) 'Hardly Working' is a feeble attempt at comedy by the king of silliness, Jerry Lewis. A very bad movie steeped in overkill and destruction.

Specials on HBO this month include Johnny Cash's 'America', HBO Theater's 'Bus Stop' and 'The Beach Boys' in concert.

Book Review

ARTIST'S LIFE

The art of Dusty Bonge, a Biloxi painter, is the subject of the second book in the Mississippi Art Series published by the University Press of Mississippi.

While many other painters along the Mississippi Gulf Coast have limited their art to pictorial rendering of the sunny beaches, the magnolias, and the scenic shrimp boats, Dusty Bonge has viewed this same world with different eyes.

In her art she sees this coastal world as pattern, light, texture, and line. Her challenge is not the actual but the abstraction.

She has been an actress, mother, grandmother, and, for more than forty years after retiring from the legitimate state, a painter inspired and stimulated by her surroundings to render the realistic world as abstract expression.

Although her art has been widely and importantly exhibited in the U.S., her work has been virtually unacknowledged in Mississippi. Her paintings have been exhibited in the Museum of Modern Art, Whitney Museum, Mortimer Brandt Gallery, Betty Parsons Gallery, and others.

This new book about her art is entitled Dusty Bonge: The Life of an Artist. It is introduced by Bonge's friend Nancy Longnecker, with whom Bonge collaborated in assembling the materials for the book.

The text, in prose and verse, expresses Bonge's philosophy of art and comments upon the individual works included in the book.

The publication date is scheduled for Sept. 24, and a half-hour special on Dusty Bonge will be aired on Mississippi ETV at 8 p.m. on Oct. 6.

The first volume in the Mississippi Art Series, released in 1981, was focused upon the diaries and paintings of the late William Hollingsworth Jr. of Jackson.

THE CAPERS PAPERS

A book from the University Press of Mississippi that was sold out just four weeks after publication is now back in print because of demand by bookbuyers.

'The Capers Papers' by Charlotte Capers of the State Department of Archives and History was premiered in March at a reception in the rotunda of the Old Capitol in Jackson.

Sales at that event broke the press's record for the number of books sold in one day.

In this book of humorous essays the Capers brand of wit and warm observation reverberates in reminiscences of some of the author's experiences as a landlady, godmother, dog lover, and tourist.

As her friend Eudora Welty points in the book's foreword, 'Charlotte Capers never missed a thing in the passing scene. It is above all, though, the sense of people, of human nature and intractable human behavior that intrigues and stirs and delights her mind, and fairly confirms her expectations.'

'The Capers Papers' is available in bookstores or from the University Press of Mississippi, 3825 Ridgewood Road, Jackson, MS 39211 at $9.95 plus state sales tax.

METV offering GED test series

In the area of adult education this fall, the Mississippi ETV Network will offer three college credit courses, three courses for teacher recertification and the GED TV series, which is designed to help persons prepare for the General Education Development (GED) test.

College credit courses in history, psychology and sociology begin on ETV on Saturday, Sept. 4.

'The American Story: The Beginning to 1877' narrates the story of America from its prehistoric beginnings to the Centennial celebration in 1876. Two lessons will be broadcast each week: at 1 and 1:30 p.m., Saturdays, with rebroadcasts at 5 and 5:30 p.m., Sundays.

'Understanding Human Behavior' is an introduction to psychology that encourages an understanding and appreciation of the scientific approach to the study of human behavior. Two programs will be telecast each week: at 2 and 2:30 p.m., Saturdays.

'Focus on Society' is a principle-of-sociology course that explores the interaction of history and biography in 'Mainstreaming the Exceptional Child' is designed to help regular classroom teachers get ready for the placement of children with exceptional educational needs into the regular classroom. It can be seen at 3 p.m., Wednesdays, beginning September 15.

The GED TV series is designed to help students prepare for and pass the General Education Development (GED) test. Successful completion of the test earns for the students the equivalent of a high school diploma.

The series focuses on the development of reading, grammar and math skills.

The skills covered in the series are considered most important to the successful completion of the GED test.

Two lessons can be seen weekly: at noon, Mondays and Fridays, beginning September 13, with rebroadcasts at 4 and 4:30 p.m., Saturdays.

DISRAELI'S LIFE

Ian McShane stars as Benjamin Disraeli in 'Masterpiece Theatre's' four-part dramatization of the British Prime Minister's life. 'Disraeli' will be rebroadcast at 9 p.m., Sundays, beginning August 8, on Mississippi ETV. It was first seen on ETV in June, 1980.

Much of the story revolves around Disraeli's unexpected and unexpectedly happy marriage to Mary Anne Wyndham Lewis, the flirtatious, apparently frivolous woman who played such a dramatic part in shaping his career. After the death of her husband she became his wife—historically 'the perfect wife.'

She was the last woman anyone would have expected Disraeli to marry. When Disraeli did ask Mrs. Lewis (Mary Peach) to marry him, he was largely influenced by her wealth and his shrewd realization of how much she could help him in his political aspirations.

CELEBRATES FIRST—Rachel Marie Mutter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory James Mutter of Bay St. Louis, celebrated her first birthday July 21. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.A. Mutter of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Maureen Griffith of Waveland and E.L. Folse of Thibodaux, La.

Other business conducted at the meeting included a gift presentation to Mrs. Frances McDonald in appreciation of her service and leadership as out-going president. Mrs. McDonald served two terms as president of the Altrusa Club.

Norman Rockwell figurines featured at library

By JOE PILET
Coordinator

Friends of The Library.
A collection of Norman Rockwell figurines has been placed in the display case at the City-County Public Library through the courtesy of Bob Hubbard. They will remain on display throughout the month of August.

Among the figurines are to be seen "Gramps at the Reins," cleverly and humorously depicting the loving relationship of a grandfather and his young grandson.

Curtis Building for 47 years Rockwell carried his paintings to the editors of the Saturday Evening Post.

Charles A. Breath Jr. together with his grandson, Charles A. (Chuck) Breath IV, were among the first grandfather-grandson team to view the exhibit.

They would have made ideal models for some of Rockwell's figurines — Rockwell with his innate empathy in treating that special relationship existing between a grandfather and his progeny.

Viewing "Grampa and the Snowman," the elder Breath recalled pleasant memories — memories of his younger days when the Saturday Evening Post and Life and several other magazines with humorous Rockwell illustrations were topics of conversation in his home at 616 North Beach Blvd. in Bay St. Louis where Mr. Breath was born and still lives!

Young Chuck enjoyed listening and asking questions. He was not alone in his inquiries — many questions are coming in such as:

Q. Did Norman Rockwell have any children? The answer is "yes," Rockwell had three sons.

Q. Where did Rockwell study?
A. At the age of 18 in 1909 Rockwell was enrolled in the New York City Academy School, the next year he transferred to the Art Student League.

Q. Which was Rockwell's most popular painting?

A. "Saying Grace" — probably seconded by his most Rockwell loved and understood America — and Americans identify with his works.

Bob Hubbard, an artist in share these figurines with patrons of our library. The display case seems just perfect for them.

In addition to the figurines by Rockwell, Hubbard added forceful group of "Four Freedoms."

Q. Did Rockwell ever illustrate a book, or was his work confined to magazines?

A. Rockwell's first commission was four Christmas cards, magazines he illustrated included Colliers, Life, Country Gentleman, Literary Digest and Popular Science.

In 1935 he illustrated Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. He carefully researched Mark Twain's home in Hannibal, Missouri for authenticity in this work.

Q. What makes the works of Norman Rockwell such popular "collector items?"

A. Probably because

Chuck Breath and his grandfather, Charles A. Breath Jr. view figurines by Norman Rockwell who never heard of a "generation gap" (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

This subject appeared as a Saturday Evening Post cover on December 16, 1933.

Pop Fredericks, a retired actor, modeled as "Gramps" in this as well as several other of Rockwell's works. Rockwell's view of older folks is refreshing because his senior citizens always join in the fun.

"Grampa Snowman" is typical of Rockwell's optimistic view of life — age has not dulled Grampa's sense of humor. This is a real "oldie," appearing December 20, 1919 as a Saturday Evening Post cover.

"Caught in the Act" is the title of a once rather common scene. The year 1928 found many hobos, railroad tramps, and their following of dogs.

Rockwell's figurine of these "Kings of the Road" perpetuates that chapter in America's history. At the same time it illustrates Rockwell's understanding of all strata in human nature.

"Trick or Treat" is especially appealing, recalling special times and experiences in childhood. A favorite among young and old alike.

"Boy on Stilts" is another of 1919 vintage. Home made stilts, and an exciting puppy shows an out of control situation. It makes one conscious of the special relationship of a boy and his dog. Although to some it might be just a spotted mongrel of uncertain parentage, to its owner the dog has a noble heart.

Other subjects include "Young Love," "Man Threading a Needle," and "First Dance."

Norman Rockwell was born in 1894 and died in 1978. The largest permanent collection of his works is to be found in the Norman Rockwell Museum in the Curtis Building located on Sixth and Walnut Streets in Philadelphia.

This museum opened on February 5, 1976. Here in this

Q. What do you do with a rebellious teenager who won't listen to your advice?
A. The answer to any question like this is to be at the dinner table, brag about smoking pot and humiliates his father by telling him that he's a failure?

We are at our wits' end wondering what we have done that is wrong and what we can do to get things right. We are going through the teenage years—and young people—are enduring. The teenage years are difficult for everyone, with the young people growing rapidly and maturing at an even faster pace. Patience, love and communication are the keys to the problems required to deal with teenage traumas. Teenagers need a professional counselor. Sometimes the entire family needs counseling. If you will find help in a booklet, Try Faith and Watch What Happens, which is the way to you. Any reader wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564. Terrified applicant

Q. I am in my last semester at school and soon must start looking for a job. My problem is that I lack self-confidence and have a hard time "selling" myself to others. I would be grateful for your advice as to how to overcome my stage fright at the mere thought of applying for work. Obviously no one will have confidence in my ability if I am unable to talk to them convincingly.

A. Why not start by changing your attitude toward yourself? If you lack confidence in yourself, no one else is going to have confidence in you. Stop telling everyone—especially yourself—that you are scared and shy. Instead, form the habit of affirming that you are outgoing and courageous. People who say that "thinking does not make it so" are wrong. The mind tends to accept as fact what you think—if you make yourself mean it and keep emphasizing it. When self-doubts arise, try to cancel them out with affirmative thoughts.

Pearlington Branch THE MORMONS

Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints

The Pearlington Branch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints held its first annual Branch Conference Sunday, July 25, at their Pearlington Chapel on Hwy. 604.

As the main thrust of the conference several speeches were presented by local and state leaders on subjects that were interrelated.

William Gilthorpe, Pearlington's branch president, spoke on 'The Importance of Prayer in our lives,' stating that 'it should be a part of everything we do.'

He quoted Elder Marion G. Romney, a counselor in the First Presidency of the Church, as saying, 'No one ever reaches perfection except those who are guided to it by Him who is perfect; and guidance from Him is to be had only through prayer.'

Gilthorpe went on to say 'We can keep evil influences out of our lives and our minds through daily communication with the Lord.'

Alvin Parker, second counselor in the Pearlington Branch Presidency, spoke briefly on missionary work. He said that 'We should make every effort to share with our neighbors every aspect of the gospel.'

He quoted the president of the church, Spencer W. Kimball, who said, 'Perhaps the greatest reason for missionary work is to give the world the chance to hear and accept the gospel.'

CANCER Answerline

American Cancer Society

A regular feature prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.

Question: What is multiple myeloma?

ANSWERline: It is the uncontrolled reproduction of abnormal plasma cells, especially those in the bone marrow. Like red and white blood cells, plasma cells are also found normally in very small numbers in the blood and should not be confused with plasma which is the pale yellow liquid part of the whole blood. When malignant plasma cells proliferate, too rapidly, other components of the bone marrow are damaged in their ability to reproduce normally. Marrow, the soft spongy part of the bone, produces red blood cells, white blood cells and platelets. Red blood cells carry oxygen to cells throughout the body; white blood cells fight infection; and platelets, which control clotting, prevent hemorrhaging. Unlike other systematic cancers, that is, the lymphomas and leukemias — some forms of which may spread rapidly, multiple myeloma may remain localized in its original site, the bone, for some time.

Question: What are the signs or symptoms of multiple myeloma?

ANSWERline: Bone pain, concentrated in the back, is often the first symptom of which the patient is aware. Other signs and symptoms, one or more of which may be present, are weight loss, a feeling of weakness, anemia, bone fractures, abnormal bleeding, or repeated infections. The cause of this cancer, as of most cancers, is not known. The only consistent factor is age, starting at 40 with an escalating incidence after age 55.

Question: What are the signs and symptoms of colorectal cancer?

ANSWERline: Since the digested matter in the colon and rectum becomes increasingly solid as it descends, a colorectal cancer will result in obstruction. The closer the cancer is to the rectum, the more pronounced will be the signs and symptoms of obstruction: rectal bleeding, appearing in or on the stool; constipation or diarrhea, or both alternately; increase in intestinal gas, causing various degrees of abdominal discomfort. People with hemorrhoids are apt to ignore rectal bleeding since it is a common result of the condition. This is unwise because although hemorrhoids do not cause cancer, a person with hemorrhoids may also have cancer. Rectal bleeding can never be assumed to be the result of hemorrhoids alone; only an examination can rule out cancer.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." — John 10:10

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

Marriage, it has been noted, is like a besieged fortress. Those who are outside want in, while those who are inside want out. As a minister for Christ I encounter both those who wish they were married and those who wish they weren't!

However, I am convinced from my dealings with folks that the people who are "in" and want to stay in are more numerous than mass media and best seller lists indicate.

Most still do not side with the contemporary trend that ridicules the Biblical concept of marriage. That is not to say that they are not aware of the problems and difficulties that marriages face in the 60s. Rather they realize that marriage does not need "redefining" so much as the people in it need developing and "renewing."

The more I delve into the inspired writings of the Bible, the more I'm convinced that our modern marriages still require His resources in order for us to "renew" ourselves for the challenge of a new day.

A good way to do this is through daily meditation on different aspects of the marital relationship. While the Bible is always the best source, there are many excellent devotional books written that can be found at any Christian bookstore.

One such book entitled, 'Good Morning, Lord: Meditations for Modern Marriages' is written by Louis O. Caldwell.

If you can't find it at a local bookstore, they can order it for you through Baker Book House in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

The following is an excerpt from one of the morning devotionals that you might read as you arise to begin a new day.

FIT TO LIVE WITH
One of the western world's great men once wrote about "a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma." Sir Winston Churchill was describing Russia, but he might just as well have been describing our marriage mates!

However, we shouldn't be unduly disturbed when we are baffled by the behavior of each other. For we are question marks to ourselves as well.

The Scriptural explanation of man recognizes that by nature man tends to miss the mark, to fall short of our Creator's purpose for our lives. But the Bible goes on to emphasize that man has the capacity for noble living.

Developing a Scripturally defined relationship to Christ allows the Holy Spirit to produce - in time! - the characteristics we need to make us fit to live with.

Such characteristics as love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance are produced by the Spirit in the person living in obedience to Christ (Gal. 5:22-24).

Truth: Success in marriage is more than finding the right mate; it is chiefly a matter of being the right mate.
